■ Troisième trimestre 2023

Au troisième trimestre, l'économie américaine a enregistré une bonne performance, tandis que dans la zone euro et en Chine, le climat restait décevant. Dans la plupart des pays, l'inflation a poursuivi son recul, restant malgré tout trop élevée selon les responsables des politiques monétaires. Les grandes banques centrales des économies développées ont continué à relever leurs taux directeurs, mais à une cadence plus lente que sur les trimestres précédents. Dans certains pays émergents, ces institutions ont toutefois commencé à baisser leurs taux. Sur les marchés, les rendements obligataires ont grimpé et les actions ont reculé.

États-Unis

Malgré une forte hausse des taux d'intérêt, l'économie américaine s'est révélée plus solide que prévu. Bon nombre d'observateurs ont revu à la baisse ou ont modéré leurs prévisions de récession. Cette solide résistance se doit, entre autres, à l'épargne importante des ménages et aux mesures publiques visant à soutenir l'investissement. Les révisions des chiffres d'août et de septembre ont ainsi confirmé que la croissance du PIB était restée ferme au deuxième trimestre, à un taux annualisé de 2,1%. De même, les indicateurs ISM de septembre ont signalé une activité robuste dans le secteur des services et une contraction amoindrie dans l'industrie. Un grand nombre de postes ont été créés, quoiqu'à un rythme plus lent, le taux de chômage augmentant légèrement (à 3,8% en août, contre 3,6% en juin). L'indice de l'inflation générale s'est de nouveau accéléré (3,7% en août contre 3,0% en juin), principalement sous l'influence de la hausse des prix du carburant, mais l'indice sous-jacent a continué à ralentir, à 4,3% en août contre 4,8% en juin. La Fed a relevé les taux des fonds fédéraux de 25 points de base en juillet (soutenant sa fourchette de 5,25-5,50%), mais les a maintenus en septembre, laissant la porte ouverte à d'éventuelles hausses supplémentaires.

Zone euro

L'activité économique s'est révélée décevante dans la zone euro. Au deuxième trimestre, la croissance a quasiment stagné, avec une augmentation de 0,1% pour le PIB, alors qu'elle n'avait déjà pas progressé sur le premier trimestre. Les pays les plus exposés aux services (France et Espagne) ont maintenu une cadence légèrement positive, mais ceux pour lesquels l'industrie est plus importante ont affiché une croissance presque nulle (Allemagne), voire négative (Italie). Au troisième trimestre, les indicateurs de l'activité (notamment les indices PMI) ont révélé que la détérioration précédemment observée dans l'industrie avait tendance à s'étendre aux services. Toutefois, malgré certains signes de ralentissement, le marché du travail est resté robuste, avec un taux de chômage à 6,4% en août, son niveau le plus faible depuis la création de la zone euro. Dans l'ensemble, l'inflation a reculé. En septembre, la hausse du taux général sur 12 mois est revenue à 4,3% (contre 5,5% en juin), l'indice sous-jacent se positionnant à 4,5% (contre 5,5%). La Banque centrale européenne a relevé ses taux directeurs de 25 pb en juillet, puis à nouveau en septembre, plaçant le taux de dépôt à 4,00%. Elle n'est cependant pas allée jusqu'à indiquer que des hausses supplémentaires étaient probables, réaffirmant qu'elle estimait que les taux actuels étaient suffisants pour continuer à faire baisser l'inflation.

Marchés émergents

Au troisième trimestre, les données en provenance de la Chine ont montré une certaine faiblesse dans le secteur immobilier, ainsi que dans d'autres secteurs, tandis que les promoteurs éprouvaient des difficultés à rembourser leurs dettes. Les données publiées en août ont cependant dépassé les attentes, suggérant que le pire était déjà survenu au troisième trimestre. Malgré des prévisions de reprise cyclique progressive, la Chine affiche toutefois un ralentissement durable sur plusieurs années, le secteur immobilier continuant d'être le frein principal. Les pouvoirs gouvernementaux ont répondu par des mesures politiques, qui n'ont toutefois pas été suffisantes pour relancer la croissance rapidement. La transition à long terme vers un modèle de croissance moins orienté vers le logement et les exportations demeure la priorité. Dans la majorité des pays émergents, la dynamique macroéconomique reste faible, mais haussière. D'ailleurs, les exportations semblent avoir atteint un plancher. Cependant, en raison de l'affaiblissement des effets de base, d'une hausse des prix de l'alimentation et de l'énergie ainsi que de pressions sur le change, le rythme de baisse de l'inflation a ralenti, pesant ainsi sur le pouvoir d'achat des ménages. Toutefois, les banques centrales, en dehors de quelques cas atypiques (Turquie, Russie et Thaïlande, par exemple), ont amorcé puis maintenu un cycle d'assouplissement monétaire en abaissant leurs taux. Un grand nombre ont néanmoins adopté une attitude plus prudente suite aux déclarations de la Fed et à la possibilité qu'elle maintienne ses taux élevés plus longtemps. Concernant d'autres événements importants du trimestre, les BRICS ont accepté l'admission de six nouveaux membres (Argentine, Égypte, Iran, Éthiopie, Arabie saoudite et Émirats arabes unis) et l'Inde a été ajoutée à l'indice EMGBI.

Actions

Les actions ont été freinées au troisième trimestre. Malgré les bonnes performances des résultats d'entreprise, le ton ferme des banques centrales a provoqué une brusque hausse des taux à long terme, qui a entraîné à son tour une correction sur les marchés boursiers. Les titres américains à 10 ans ont grimpé de près de 75 pb sur le trimestre. Le MSCI World AC a perdu 2,9%. À l'échelle régionale, les États-Unis (en baisse de 3,4%) ont sous-performé l'Europe (en baisse de 2,5%). Dans la zone euro (en baisse de 4,6%), l'Italie (en hausse de 0,6%) a largement surperformé ses voisins. Le reste des États membres a fini le trimestre dans le rouge, le Portugal (en baisse de 6,1%) et les Pays-Bas (en baisse de 11,5%) fermant la marche. En dehors de la zone euro, le marché britannique a progressé de 1,3%. La Suède (en baisse de 5,1%) et la Suisse (en baisse de 3,3%) ont terminé cette même période en territoire négatif. Le Japon (en hausse de 0,8%), en monnaie locale, a continué de profiter de la chute du yen ainsi que de la résilience de son économie. Enfin, l'indice MSCI Emerging Markets a reculé de 2,2%, influencé par la sous-performance du marché chinois, en baisse de 3%. Au niveau sectoriel, en Europe, l'énergie a mené la danse (en hausse de 14,1%), suivie par l'immobilier, qui a gagné 7,9%, et le secteur bancaire, qui a de son côté progressé de 4,1%. Les biens de consommation cyclique et les technologies de l'information ont constitué les grands perdants du trimestre en termes de secteurs, en recul de 11,5% et 10,7% respectivement. Les actions dites de valeur (en hausse de 1,8%) ont surperformé les actions de croissance (en baisse de 6,5%).

Taux

Les rendements obligataires ont considérablement progressé au troisième trimestre. Les obligations d'État allemandes à 10 ans ont augmenté de plus de 42 pb, à 2,81%. Les obligations d'État américaines à 10 ans ont gagné 76 pb pour clôturer le trimestre à 4,57%. Les rendements obligataires reviennent aux niveaux d'avant la crise financière, signe d'un changement de régime macro-financier. L'économie américaine a surpris les observateurs par sa résilience. La croissance est demeurée solide et la probabilité d'assister à un atterrissage en douceur s'est accrue. La Fed a relevé ses taux directeurs à 5,5%. Le cycle de resserrement monétaire aurait dû prendre fin, mais Jerome Powell, le président de la Réserve fédérale, a indiqué que les taux directeurs resteraient probablement élevés plus longtemps. De son côté, la BCE s'est retrouvée face à un dilemme, entre l'inflation élevée et des perspectives de croissance qui se détérioraient rapidement dans la zone euro. Elle a relevé les taux d'intérêt des dépôts à 4%, laissant désormais le marché espérer aucune modification sur une période prolongée. L'institution a décidé de poursuivre sa bataille pour ramener l'inflation à l'objectif de 2%, et forcément, de maintenir une politique monétaire contraignante.

■ Quatrième trimestre 2023

L'activité économique est restée forte au quatrième trimestre, malgré un ralentissement aux États-Unis et des chiffres décevants dans la zone euro. Dans la plupart des économies émergentes, la croissance a ralenti, tout en restant solide. L'inflation a poursuivi sa baisse dans presque tous les pays. La Réserve fédérale américaine et la Banque centrale européenne ont indiqué qu'elles arrivaient au terme de leur cycle de hausses des taux directeurs, alors que plusieurs banques centrales des pays émergents baissaient les leurs. Sur les marchés, les rendements obligataires ont progressé et les actions ont chuté en octobre. Toutefois, cette tendance s'est inversée en novembre et décembre, raison pour laquelle en fin d'année, les rendements obligataires étaient plus faibles qu'en début de trimestre, tandis que les actions augmentaient nettement, plusieurs indices atteignant même des plafonds historiques.

États-Unis

Malgré la résistance surprenante constante de l'économie américaine à la brusque hausse des taux d'intérêt, la tendance était cependant au ralentissement. Les chiffres de croissance du troisième trimestre communiqués au trimestre suivant ont révélé une activité très soutenue (croissance du PIB à un taux annualisé de 4.9% d'après la révision de décembre). Cependant, les dernières statistiques du marché du travail ont montré un possible début d'essoufflement. Ainsi, malgré des chiffres de création d'emplois qui restent importants (près de 180 000 par mois en moyenne au quatrième trimestre), le taux de chômage s'est stabilisé à 3.7% en décembre, contre 3.4% à son point le plus bas en avril. D'autres chiffres mensuels, tels que les ventes au détail, les commandes de biens durables et la production industrielle, indiquent que la croissance sera probablement nettement plus faible au quatrième trimestre qu'au troisième trimestre. Par ailleurs, l'inflation a clairement reculé, même si elle reste au-dessus de l'objectif de 2% de la Fed. En novembre, la hausse sur 12 mois de l'indice général des prix n'a été que de 3.1%, contre 3.7% en août, avec un indice sous-jacent à 4.0%, contre 4.3% auparavant. La Réserve fédérale n'a pas changé ses taux directeurs après les avoir relevés en juillet. Elle s'est montrée satisfaite de leur niveau actuel et a mentionné que le rythme des prochaines baisses était toujours à l'étude.

Zone euro

L'activité économique est restée particulièrement calme dans la zone euro, la hausse des taux d'intérêt s'ajoutant aux difficultés spécifiques du secteur industriel. Fin novembre, la révision des chiffres du PIB pour le troisième trimestre a reflété une très légère chute de 0.1% pour l'ensemble de la région, ce taux couvrant à la fois des baisses modestes en France et en Allemagne, une hausse négligeable en Italie et une augmentation quelque peu supérieure en Espagne. Cette érosion s'inscrit dans la phase de quasi-stagnation observée depuis le début de l'année. Les données du début du quatrième trimestre n'ont révélé aucune amélioration notable. Le marché du travail s'est toutefois maintenu relativement en forme, avec un taux de chômage inchangé de 6.5% en octobre, son plancher depuis la création de la zone euro. Les bonnes nouvelles sont apparues du côté de l'inflation, avec un ralentissement du rythme des hausses pour l'indice général des prix, qui est ressorti à 2.9% sur 12 mois en décembre (après s'être positionné à 4.4% en septembre) et une décélération de l'indice sous-jacent à 3.4% (contre 4.5% précédemment). La Banque centrale européenne n'a pas modifié ses taux directeurs après les avoir relevés en septembre. Après la réunion de son comité de politique monétaire en décembre, elle a de nouveau déclaré être certaine que les niveaux de taux en cours allaient permettre de faire baisser l'inflation encore davantage, en précisant que toute discussion sur d'éventuelles baisses de taux était prématurée.

Marchés émergents

Au quatrième trimestre, la Chine est demeurée prudente concernant les politiques économiques de développement, dans un contexte de reprise très irrégulière. Les dépenses publiques d'infrastructure ont été accélérées, mais la consommation a ralenti et l'inflation s'est installée en territoire négatif. Au Brésil, la croissance de l'inflation a continué de fléchir, tandis qu'en Inde, la consommation s'est avérée plus solide que l'investissement. Dans l'ensemble, sur les marchés émergents, la demande intérieure a faibli et l'inflation a continué à reculer, tout en restant en dessous des niveaux visés par les banques centrales dans la majorité des cas. Les institutions monétaires ont continué à baisser leurs taux. Le Brésil a poursuivi cette voie avec plusieurs baisses de 50 pb, tandis que le Chili a accéléré la cadence avec des baisses de 75 pb. D'autres pays se sont joints au mouvement, comme la Colombie et la République tchèque. La position apparemment plus restrictive de la Réserve fédérale américaine a permis de réduire la pression exercée sur les taux de change, qui avait précédemment amené la banque centrale indonésienne à relever ses taux et celle du Chili à réduire ses compressions. Enfin, en Argentine, le nouveau président Milei a commencé son mandat avec une dévaluation de 50% du peso et un plan ambitieux de libéralisation de l'économie.

Actions

Les marchés boursiers ont chuté en octobre, mais ont fortement rebondi en conséquence d'une réduction des taux à long terme. Sur le trimestre, le MSCI World AC a progressé de 9%. À l'échelle régionale, les États-Unis (en hausse de 11.5%) ont surperformé l'Europe (en hausse de 5.3%). Au sein de la zone euro (en hausse de 7.5%), les Pays-Bas (en hausse de 14.8%) et le Portugal (en hausse de 10.2%) ont surperformé leurs voisins. Le reste des États membres a terminé dans le vert, la France (en hausse de 5.6%) et l'Espagne (en hausse de 6.7%) fermant la marche. En dehors de la zone euro, le marché suédois s'est positionné en tête (en hausse de 12.2%), suivi du marché britannique (en hausse de 1.6%) et de la Suisse (en hausse de 1.3%). Le marché japonais (en hausse de +2.1%), en monnaie locale, a continué de profiter de la chute du yen ainsi que de la résilience de son économie. Enfin, l'indice MSCI Emerging Markets a progressé de 5.2%, malgré la sous-performance du marché chinois, en baisse de 5%. Au niveau sectoriel, en Europe, les actions de valeur (en hausse de 3.4%) ont sous-performé leurs homologues de croissance (en hausse de 7.2%). Le secteur immobilier (en hausse de 22.6%) et les technologies de l'information (en hausse de 18.3%), sensibles aux taux d'intérêt, se sont placés en tête. L'énergie (en baisse de 2.6%) et les biens de consommation de base ont quant à eux été les seuls secteurs à clôturer le trimestre dans le rouge.

Taux

Les marchés des taux d'intérêt ont été marqués par une baisse brusque sur la totalité de la courbe. Les taux des bons américains à 10 ans ont clôturé l'exercice à presque 3.8% et ceux des obligations d'État allemandes à 10 ans à environ 2%. Le marché s'attend également à ce que la Fed et la BCE entament une série de baisses de taux en mars. Cette réduction rapide de taux s'explique par plusieurs facteurs : 1) un recul de l'inflation plus important que prévu dans les économies développées ; 2) un changement de positionnement de la Fed, laquelle est désormais revenue à un point où elle se doit de remplir deux missions importantes : la réduction de l'inflation et le maintien de l'emploi. La Fed est rassurée par le ralentissement de la hausse des prix et les membres du FOMC sont désormais attentifs à l'impact de l'augmentation des taux sur la croissance, dans le but d'éviter un enrayement excessif de l'activité. Par conséquent, la Fed ne souhaite pas que sa politique entrave l'économie plus longtemps que nécessaire ; 3) la croissance économique qui a continué à surprendre à la baisse dans la zone euro. En fin de trimestre, le marché du travail se trouvait cependant très solide dans la zone euro et les marchés s'attendaient à ce que l'inflation revienne rapidement à 2% sans pour autant observer de récession.

■ Premier trimestre 2024

Au premier trimestre 2024, l'activité économique est restée robuste aux États-Unis, mais pas autant en Europe, même si elle s'est quelque peu améliorée par rapport au dernier trimestre de 2023. La tendance s'est également avérée légèrement meilleure dans les économies émergentes. L'inflation a continué de chuter, bien que progressivement. Tant la Réserve fédérale américaine que la Banque centrale européenne (BCE) ont indiqué qu'elles attendraient encore un peu avant d'abaisser leurs taux. Sur les marchés, les rendements obligataires ont rebondi tandis que les actions poursuivaient leur bonne dynamique, fin 2023.

États-Unis

L'économie américaine a continué à faire preuve d'une incroyable solidité, bien que bon nombre d'observateurs aient estimé que les hausses de taux directeurs de 2022 et 2023 allaient mener tout droit à la récession. Fin mars, une troisième estimation officielle du PIB pour le quatrième trimestre 2023 a révélé une croissance à un taux annualisé de 3.4%. Si l'on s'intéresse à des données plus récentes, les chiffres du marché du travail ont indiqué la création de plus de 500 000 postes en janvier et février, ce qui représente un bon rythme, en accélération par rapport au quatrième trimestre. De leur côté, les indicateurs du climat des affaires pour l'industrie indiquaient un moindre recul sur les deux premiers mois du trimestre, le secteur des services continuant de s'améliorer. L'inflation a poursuivi son déclin, bien que progressivement. En février, l'indice général des prix à la consommation se positionnait à 3.2% sur 12 mois, après avoir atteint un chiffre de 3.4% en décembre, et l'indice sous-jacent affichait 3.8%, contre 3.9% précédemment. Au début du trimestre, la Réserve fédérale a fait passer un message en vue de calmer les attentes du marché quant à une réduction des taux directeurs au premier trimestre. Elle indiquait ainsi que la prochaine étape consisterait très probablement à effectuer une réduction, mais seulement en cas de signes supplémentaires indiquant un ralentissement durable de l'inflation.

Zone euro

Après avoir observé une période de quasi-stagnation tout au long de 2023, nous avons constaté quelques faibles signes d'amélioration au premier trimestre. Les chiffres du PIB avaient révélé une croissance nulle pour le quatrième trimestre. Ils étaient légèrement négatifs en Allemagne, tout juste positifs en Italie et en France, et davantage dans le vert en Espagne. Toutefois, en mars, les indices PMI ont grimpé à un niveau indiquant une expansion de l'activité dans le secteur des services et une contraction moins marquée qu'à la fin de 2023 dans l'industrie. D'autres indicateurs, tels que l'indice IFO du climat des affaires en Allemagne, ont également révélé une très légère amélioration. De même, le marché du travail a continué de résister à la morosité économique, avec un taux de chômage se maintenant à 6.5% en février, son niveau le plus bas depuis la création de la zone euro. L'inflation a poursuivi son ralentissement, avec un indice des prix à la consommation sur 12 mois chutant à 2.6% en février (après avoir atteint 2.9% en décembre) et un indice sous-jacent passant de 3.4% à 3.1%. Tout comme la Fed américaine, la BCE a cherché à dissiper les attentes relatives à une baisse rapide des taux directeurs. Au vu du message transmis par son comité de politique monétaire réuni le 7 mars, le marché a largement estimé qu'une première réduction aurait lieu en juin.

Marchés émergents

La reprise économique a été modérée en Chine et marquée par la persistance des pressions déflationnistes. Les autorités chinoises ont préféré baisser les taux d'intérêt plutôt que d'avoir recours aux armes budgétaires pour atteindre l'objectif de réduction de la dette des autorités locales. Depuis le début de l'année, la croissance s'est améliorée dans les pays émergents, bien qu'elle soit restée négative en Europe centrale et en Europe de l'Est. L'inflation a brusquement chuté dans la plupart des pays en janvier, mais février a été témoin de quelques surprises à la hausse, ainsi que d'inquiétudes relatives aux attentes. Les devises émergentes ont connu une extrême volatilité, dans la mesure où les investisseurs attendaient d'avoir une meilleure visibilité sur la politique monétaire américaine. Les actions n'ont pas non plus été épargnées. Les banques centrales, dont la plupart avaient commencé à assouplir leur politique monétaire, ont à nouveau réagi rapidement en s'abstenant de procéder à des baisses de taux en mars et/ou en maintenant ces taux inchangés. De toute évidence, le contexte géopolitique a continué de peser lourdement sur l'opinion des investisseurs, ces derniers redoutant particulièrement les éventuelles répercussions sur l'inflation mondiale.

Taux

Les taux sont restés élevés, avec une volatilité toujours forte. Le rendement des obligations d'État allemandes à 10 ans a dépassé 2.3% et celui des obligations américaines à 10 ans 4.3%. Deux facteurs continuaient d'influencer les marchés, à savoir la progression de l'inflation et l'opinion des banques centrales. Les marchés étaient convaincus que la BCE baisserait ses taux en juin. Au cours de sa dernière réunion, le comité de la BCE a effectivement laissé la porte ouverte à une réduction de taux pour la fin du premier semestre. Cependant, Christine Lagarde a réitéré son appel à la patience concernant la politique monétaire. L'institution européenne est demeurée prudente concernant la cadence de la désinflation, en particulier dans le secteur des services, prévoyant de continuer à surveiller l'évolution d'un marché du travail ayant fait preuve d'une grande résilience. D'un autre côté, les marchés étaient moins sûrs que la Fed abaisserait ses taux en juin. En effet, celle-ci n'était pas pressée de les réduire dans la mesure où elle considérait que la croissance économique sous-jacente avait plus de chances de rebondir et était plus solide qu'en décembre. La banque centrale américaine n'a pas changé son discours malgré la récente accélération de l'inflation assurant que celle-ci suivait une tendance baissière progressive, quoique parfois parsemée d'embûches vers l'objectif de 2%.

Actions

Les actifs risqués ont commencé l'année dans le vert. Les investisseurs ont adhéré au scénario de l'atterrissage en douceur, suscitant ainsi la hausse des marchés d'actions. De plus, de bons résultats d'entreprise ont soutenu les marchés boursiers sur le trimestre. Les actions mondiales ont profité de cette situation, comme en témoigne la hausse de 9.1% de l'indice MSCI ACWI. Les États-Unis ont gagné 10%, surperformant l'Europe, elle-même en progression de 7.6%. Les marchés de la zone euro se sont améliorés, avec une progression de 9.9%, les Pays-Bas (en hausse de 17.9%) et l'Italie (en hausse de 15.7%) apportant les principales contributions. En dehors de la zone euro, le marché britannique a obtenu de moins bons résultats ce trimestre, ne progressant que de 2.9%. Imitant les marchés développés, le Japon s'est avéré impressionnant ce trimestre, avec une augmentation de 18.3%. L'indice MSCI Emerging Markets a progressé (de 4.0%), influencé par la surperformance du marché taïwanais, qui a gagné 16.9%. Au niveau sectoriel, en Europe, les actions dites cycliques (en hausse de 10.4%) l'ont emporté sur les actions défensives (en hausse de 2.9%). Parmi ces actions, la technologie (en hausse de 17.9%), les biens de consommation cyclique (en hausse de 12.3%) et le secteur de l'assurance (en hausse de 11.9%) sont arrivés en tête. Les services aux collectivités (-5.6%) et le secteur immobilier (-1.4%) ont apporté les principales contributions négatives sur le trimestre. En Europe, les actions de croissance (en hausse de 10.7%) ont surperformé les actions de valeur (en hausse de 4.4%).

■ Deuxième trimestre 2024

Les statistiques économiques ont révélé des tendances divergentes des deux côtés de l'Atlantique. Aux États-Unis, l'activité a légèrement ralenti par rapport à la dynamique vigoureuse observée précédemment et l'inflation a repris sa tendance à la baisse. Dans la zone euro, le climat des affaires s'est amélioré après plusieurs trimestres difficiles et la hausse des prix s'est de nouveau accélérée, mais avec modération, après plusieurs mois de recul. La BCE a entamé son cycle de réduction de taux le 6 juin. La Fed, quant à elle, n'a fait aucune déclaration précise concernant une première date d'intervention. Sur les marchés, les obligations ont affiché une performance négative et restent volatiles, surtout en Europe, tandis que les actions ont poursuivi leur hausse.

États-Unis

Après plusieurs périodes trimestrielles de résilience remarquable, l'économie américaine a commencé à montrer des signes de faiblesse au deuxième trimestre. Bien que les chiffres américains aient continué à témoigner d'une robuste activité (l'indice ISM manufacturier revenant dans le vert pour la première fois depuis novembre 2022 et les ventes au détail s'affichant en hausse), la publication d'un taux de croissance du PIB inférieur aux attentes pour le premier trimestre a montré un début de relâchement. Les indicateurs américains publiés en mai ont, pour l'essentiel, révélé un ralentissement modéré de l'activité, les indices ISM de l'industrie se contractant à nouveau légèrement. Cette tendance a été confirmée en juin. Les services ont connu une évolution différente dans la mesure où les perspectives se sont améliorées. La situation sur le marché du travail s'est également avérée contradictoire, avec une bonne progression du nombre d'emplois créés, mais un taux de chômage en hausse, à 4%. La baisse des prévisions de consommation a cependant été confirmée par des ventes au détail décevantes, laissant présager une faible croissance au deuxième trimestre.

La tendance à la baisse de l'inflation a semblé marquer un arrêt en début de trimestre. Elle a finalement été validée par la publication de l'indice PCE (la mesure favorite de la Réserve fédérale) à un taux annualisé de 2.6%. Les pressions inflationnistes se limitaient cependant aux services. Dans ce contexte, la Réserve fédérale s'est abstenue d'annoncer un calendrier de baisses de taux, indiquant ainsi qu'elle attendait d'autres signes de désinflation. Les responsables de la Fed ont légèrement relevé leurs prévisions d'inflation pour 2024 et ont modifié la séquence des baisses de taux directeurs dans le temps sans en changer la valeur totale, de -250 pb d'ici fin 2026. Fin juin, plusieurs gouverneurs de la Fed semblaient réticents à l'idée de soutenir des baisses de taux avant la fin de l'année.

Europe

L'amélioration de la situation économique européenne a constitué la bonne nouvelle du deuxième trimestre. Bien que toujours faibles en termes absolus, les chiffres de la zone euro ont clairement surpris à la hausse en avril loin des attentes très pessimistes. Ainsi, les principaux indicateurs du climat économique (Sentix, ZEW et PMI) ont dans l'ensemble indiqué une légère amélioration de l'activité, malgré une situation toujours dégradée dans le secteur manufacturier. Les signes d'amélioration notables observés au mois de juin ont confirmé une légère reprise pour les pays, ce qui permet d'augurer une expansion modérée au deuxième trimestre.

Même si, en zone euro, l'inflation globale connaît une tendance à la baisse, elle résiste bien dans les activités de service, à savoir son moteur principal. Les statistiques pour le mois de mai indiquent une légère hausse des prix de 2.6% en glissement annuel, contre 2.4% en avril, avec de nouveau un retour à 2.5% au mois de juin. Cette évolution est principalement imputable au secteur des services, où l'inflation ne devrait baisser que progressivement. Le taux annuel d'inflation de base, qui exclut les prix des denrées alimentaires et de l'énergie en raison de leur volatilité, a atteint 2.7% en avril et 2.9% en juin, soit plus que ne l'attendait le marché. Si l'on considère les grandes économies, l'inflation (harmonisée à l'échelle de l'UE) a chuté en Allemagne (2.5%), en France (2.5%) et en Espagne (3.5%), mais a grimpé en Italie (0.9%).

Malgré un contexte de volatilité de l'inflation et de reprise de l'activité économique, la BCE a réduit ses taux directeurs de 25 points de base le 6 juin, et ce, pour la première fois depuis près de cinq ans, abaissant le taux de dépôt de 4% à 3.75%, conformément aux attentes du marché. Christine Lagarde n'a cependant pas fait de commentaires sur de futures réductions. Cette divergence temporaire entre la Fed et la BCE a eu un effet limité sur l'euro, qui a chuté de 1.09 à 1.07 face au dollar américain.

Bien que l'inflation soit de nouveau retombée à 2% au Royaume-Uni, la Bank of England a maintenu ses taux à 5.25% avant les élections du pays au 4 juin, révélant ainsi le caractère incertain de ses prochaines actions.

Asie

Au Japon, les données de l'inflation pour le mois de mai se sont avérées inférieures aux attentes du consensus et les statistiques de la croissance du premier trimestre ont été revues à la baisse. L'inflation (hors énergie et produits frais) a affiché 2.1% en glissement annuel, un chiffre inférieur au taux prévu de 2.2%. La Bank of Japan (BoJ) a observé un retour de l'inflation au niveau visé légèrement plus rapide que prévu. Le marché a donc logiquement anticipé que la BoJ maintiendrait ses taux d'intérêt à court terme, entraînant une nouvelle chute du yen (la parité USD/JPY ayant franchi le niveau de 160 à la fin du trimestre).

La Chine est demeurée en proie à un marché immobilier qui ne parvenait pas à se stabiliser, avec un recul continu en termes de volumes et de prix. Les dernières mesures annoncées par le gouvernement chinois suggèrent un revirement de cette situation qui a pesé sur la consommation et l'emploi pendant plusieurs trimestres. Passant de mesures techniques à faible impact à des politiques plus engagées vis-à-vis du secteur du bâtiment, les autorités chinoises ont cherché à confirmer leur volonté d'atteindre l'objectif de croissance de 5% fixé pour cette année. Dans un contexte géopolitique tendu, la Chine s'est vue accusée par ses partenaires commerciaux de concurrence déloyale dans de nombreux secteurs, avec pour conséquence une hausse des tarifs douaniers américains et potentiellement une mesure similaire de la part de l'UE. Mais le risque le plus considérable restait la faible demande intérieure, confirmée par les indicateurs PMI du mois de juin.

Marchés émergents

Bien que l'inflation semblait généralement sous contrôle dans les économies émergentes, tous les yeux étaient rivés sur la Réserve fédérale, et ses baisses de taux prévues qu'au deuxième semestre 2024, sachant que la politique de l'institution détermine les décisions des banques centrales des pays émergents. La Malaisie, le Mexique, la South Africa Reserve Bank (SARB), la National Bank of Poland (NB) et la Turkish Central Bank (TCMB) figurent parmi les banques centrales qui ont maintenu leurs taux inchangés, tandis que la Czech National Bank (CNB) et la National Bank of Hungary (NBH) les ont abaissés de 50 points de base, la Central Bank of Bulgaria (BCB) et la Central Bank of Peru (BCRP) diminuant les leurs de 25 pb. La People's Bank of China continue de privilégier la stabilité monétaire et se voit donc contrainte de maintenir ses taux constants.

Le 4 juin, l'Inde a annoncé les résultats de son élection nationale. L'Alliance démocratique nationale, dirigée par le Bharatiya Janta Party (BJP) de Modi, a été élue avec une très courte majorité. Malgré tout, Modi a obtenu le soutien de ses alliés dans la coalition, ce qui lui a permis de former un gouvernement pour la troisième fois consécutive. Après la bonne performance des actions indiennes sur plusieurs trimestres, les investisseurs seront sensibles à la progression des ambitieuses réformes économiques et à l'évolution des finances publiques.

Taux

Les marchés obligataires sont restés volatils en raison de plusieurs facteurs : une pause de la baisse de l'inflation au sein des pays développés, l'absence d'atterrissage en douceur pour l'économie américaine et l'accélération de l'activité en Europe. Le rendement des obligations américaines à 10 ans s'est révélé proche des 4.5%, tandis que les taux à 2 ans sont restés voisins des 5%. En Europe, les rendements respectifs des obligations allemandes et des OAT à 10 ans ont dépassé les 2.6% et 3%. Les écarts de taux sont restés stables parmi les principaux émetteurs souverains européens, mais nous constatons une évolution défavorable pour la France après la dégradation de sa notation par Standard & Poor's et l'annonce de la dissolution de l'Assemblée nationale suite à la défaite du mouvement présidentiel aux élections européennes.

Depuis le début de l'année, avec une inflation américaine plus persistante que prévu, le discours de la Réserve fédérale américaine est désormais de « ne pas se presser pour abaisser les taux ». Cet élément a été source de volatilité sur les marchés obligataires. En revanche, l'inflation en Europe est apparue désormais plus ou moins maîtrisée et la BCE a entrepris une première baisse de taux. Les marchés du crédit ont favorablement évolué grâce à une activité économique résiliente, à de solides bilans et aux attentes des investisseurs concernant les baisses de taux des banques centrales.

Actions

Malgré une correction temporaire en avril suite à la publication des données de l'inflation américaine, que beaucoup craignaient de voir déboucher sur une nouvelle hausse des taux de la Fed, les marchés d'actions ont rebondi au cours du trimestre, grâce à la communication de résultats rassurants pour le trimestre précédent.

L'indice MSCI World a gagné 2.6%, avec des performances régionales extrêmement contrastées. Le marché américain a progressé de 4.1%, surperformant l'Europe (en hausse de 1.65%) et le Japon (en baisse de 2.5%) de façon notable en dollars. Le marché français a été affecté par le contexte politique national, chutant d'environ 6% en juin.

L'indice S&P500 (TR) a progressé de 4.3% au deuxième trimestre et de 3.6% sur le mois de juin à lui seul. Le trimestre n'a pas bien commencé, avec un recul en avril, une série de rapports sur l'inflation plus élevés que prévu ayant fait grimper les taux d'intérêt et alimenté les craintes d'une nouvelle hausse de taux par la Fed. Les inquiétudes liées à l'inflation se sont ensuite dissipées et le marché boursier a atteint de nouveaux sommets.

Nous observons un changement de dynamique sur les marchés d'actions, avec une moindre concentration sur les actions de très grandes sociétés américaines (les sept magnifiques) et une surperformance en Europe dans certains segments, les investisseurs recherchant des secteurs ou des régions offrant des titres moins chers que les États-Unis. Les incertitudes politiques en France, suivies par la dissolution de l'Assemblée nationale, ont cependant entraîné un repli des investisseurs non européens. Mais la grande surprise reste le rebond sur le marché chinois (en hausse de 5.4%) suite aux annonces du gouvernement concernant son soutien accru au secteur immobilier, et ce en dépit des prises de bénéfices opérées en juin. Malgré la hausse des taux à long terme, les actions de croissance ont continué de nettement surperformer leurs homologues de valeur, même si nous observons un regain d'intérêt pour les secteurs bradés et un rebond des actions bancaires européennes dans la première partie du trimestre.

1 INTRODUCTION

Amundi Funds (le « Fonds ») est organisé en société d'investissement à capital variable (SICAV) sous les lois du Grand-Duché de Luxembourg. Le Fonds, initialement dénommé Groupe Indosuez Funds FCP, est un fonds commun de placement sans personnalité morale créé le 18 juillet 1985, transformé conformément à l'article 110 (2) de la loi du 30 mars 1988 relative aux organismes de placement collectif puis renommé GIF SICAV II le 15 mars 1999. L'acte de transformation et les statuts (les « statuts ») ont été publiés au Mémorial du Recueil des Sociétés et Associations le 28 avril 1999. Le Fonds a ensuite pris la dénomination de GIF SICAV le 1^{er} décembre 1999, puis de Crédit Agricole Funds le 8 décembre 2000, et il est devenu CAAM Funds le 1^{er} juillet 2007. Le 2 mars 2010, en accord avec la décision prise par les actionnaires lors de l'assemblée générale extraordinaire tenue le 23 novembre 2009 et par décision du conseil d'administration prise le 23 décembre 2009, CAAM Funds a été renommé Amundi Funds.

Un dernier amendement a été apporté aux statuts le 14 mars 2012 et a été publié au Mémorial C du Recueil des Sociétés et Associations, numéro 943 en date du 12 avril 2012. Les minimums sont appliqués en USD ou avec le montant équivalent dans toute autre devise.

2 PRINCIPALES CONVENTIONS COMPTABLES

■ PRÉSENTATION DES ÉTATS FINANCIERS

Les états financiers du Fonds ont été préparés conformément aux dispositions réglementaires en vigueur au Luxembourg concernant les organismes de placement collectif. Les états financiers sont présentés sur la base de la dernière valeur nette d'inventaire (« VNI ») calculée pendant la période comptable. Conformément au prospectus d'avril 2024 et au supplément joint au prospectus de mai 2024, les VNI ont été calculées d'après les dernières valeurs de marché et les derniers cours de change connus au moment du calcul, à savoir :

- Pour tous les Compartiments (à l'exception d'Amundi Funds Equity MENA) : VNI officielle au 28 juin 2024 ;
- Pour Amundi Funds Equity MENA : VNI officielle au 27 juin 2024.

Dans le rapport annuel au 30 juin 2024, les Compartiments fusionnés ou liquidés au cours de l'exercice font l'objet d'une présentation séparée dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net, et ils ont été inclus dans les chiffres combinés.

Les états financiers du Fonds et de chacun de ses Compartiments ont été préparés sur la base comptable de la continuité de l'exploitation, à l'exception du Compartiment Global Macro Bonds & Currencies Low Vol.

L'objectif de Amundi Funds Protect 90 est de proposer une participation à l'évolution des marchés financiers tout en offrant une protection partielle permanente à votre investissement sur toute période donnée de 3 ans. En particulier, le Compartiment est conçu de manière à ce que le cours de ses actions ne tombe pas en dessous de 90% de la valeur nette d'inventaire la plus élevée enregistrée depuis le dernier jour ouvrable du mois d'avril qui précède, comme établi dans le prospectus.

■ Investissements entre Compartiments - Au 30 juin 2024, les investissements réalisés par des Compartiments dans d'autres Compartiments de la SICAV s'élevaient à EUR 809,545,087.52, correspondant à 1.06% de la valeur nette d'inventaire totale. La VNI combinée totale en fin d'exercice, investissements croisés exclus, s'élevait donc à EUR 75,735,141,619.48.

■ Portefeuille de titres - Les valeurs mobilières cotées en bourse ou sur un marché réglementé sont valorisées à leur dernier cours connu. Lorsque lesdits cours ne sont pas représentatifs ou lorsque les titres ne sont pas cotés, les valeurs mobilières sont valorisées à leur valeur probable de réalisation, déterminée avec soin et en toute bonne foi par le Conseil d'administration.

■ Conversion d'éléments libellés en devise étrangère - Les états financiers du Fonds sont libellés en euros (EUR). En conséquence, les avoirs nets de chaque compartiment, exprimés en devise étrangère, sont convertis et combinés en euros au cours de change en vigueur à la clôture de l'exercice financier.

Les coûts d'opération et d'acquisition des titres du portefeuille, exprimés en devise étrangère, sont convertis dans la devise de référence du Compartiment concerné au cours de change en vigueur à la date d'opération ou d'acquisition, le cas échéant. La valeur de marché des titres du portefeuille et des autres actifs et passifs, exprimée en devise étrangère, est convertie dans la devise de référence du Compartiment au cours de change en vigueur à la clôture de l'exercice financier. Les différences de change résultant desdites conversions sont comptabilisées à la rubrique « Réévaluation de l'actif net consolidé » dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net.

■ Produits des investissements - Les dividendes sont comptabilisés comme des rendements à la date où ils sont déclarés, dans la mesure où les informations afférentes peuvent être obtenues par le Fonds. Les intérêts sont courus sur une base journalière.

■ Allocation des frais et charges - Chaque Compartiment est facturé des frais et charges qui lui sont spécifiquement imputables. Les frais et charges qui ne sont pas imputables à un Compartiment particulier sont répartis entre les Compartiments sur une base équitable, au prorata de leurs actifs nets respectifs.

■ Contrats de mise en pension - Les contrats de mise en pension (repos) sont équivalents à des emprunts garantis par des actifs sous-jacents enregistrés dans le portefeuille du Compartiment, lequel reste exposé au risque de marché. Les contrats de prise en pension de titres (reverse repos) sont semblables à des prêts garantis. Dans ce cas, le Compartiment n'est pas exposé au risque de dépréciation de la valeur des actifs sous-jacents. Les contrats de mise en pension et de prise en pension de titres sont considérés comme des emprunts et des prêts, respectivement, du montant des liquidités reçues et/ou payées.

■ Contrats de futures - Les contrats de futures non échus sont évalués à leur dernier cours connu à la date d'évaluation ou à la date de clôture, et les plus-values et moins-values latentes qui en résultent sont comptabilisées dans l'État de l'actif net. Les bénéfices/(pertes) nets réalisés et la variation nette des bénéfices/(pertes) non réalisés sur contrats de futures sont comptabilisés dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net.

■ Contrats d'options de type futures - Les contrats d'options de type futures sont évalués au cours coté sur une Bourse officielle. Les dépôts de sécurité initiaux sont payés en espèces à la passation du contrat. Les flux de trésorerie positifs ou négatifs ultérieurs, appelés marges de variation, sont périodiquement payés ou reçus par le Compartiment et dépendent des changements de la valeur de marché des contrats d'options de type futures. À la clôture du contrat, le compartiment concerné enregistre un gain ou une perte réalisé équivalant à la différence entre les produits (ou les coûts) découlant de la transaction de clôture et de la transaction d'ouverture. Les plus-values et moins-values nettes non réalisées sur contrats d'options de type futures sont comptabilisées dans l'État de l'actif net. Les bénéfices/(pertes) nets réalisés et la variation nette des bénéfices/(pertes) non réalisés sur contrats d'options de type futures sont comptabilisés dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net.

■ Contrats de change à terme - Les contrats de change à terme non arrivés à expiration sont évalués à leur dernier cours connu à la date d'évaluation ou à la date de clôture de période, et les plus-values et moins-values latentes qui en résultent sont comptabilisées dans l'État des actifs nets. Les bénéfices/(pertes) nets réalisés et la variation nette des bénéfices/(pertes) non réalisés sur contrats de change à terme sont comptabilisés dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net.

■ Évaluation des options et des options sur swaps - Les options officiellement cotées en Bourse ou sur tout autre marché réglementé qui fonctionnent de manière régulière, qui est reconnu et qui est ouvert au public, sont évaluées sur la base de leur cours de clôture à la date d'évaluation ou, en l'absence de cours disponible, sur la base des derniers cours connus. Les options de gré à gré, y compris les options sur swaps, sont évaluées au prix du marché d'après les éléments définis dans les contrats correspondants. Si les derniers cours connus des options cotées ou les cours calculés pour les options de gré à gré ne sont pas représentatifs, l'évaluation s'appuiera sur la possible valeur de réalisation estimée par le Conseil d'administration de la SICAV, avec prudence et en toute bonne foi. Les bénéfices/(pertes) nets réalisés et la variation nette des bénéfices/(pertes) non réalisés sur options de gré à gré et options sur swaps sont comptabilisés dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net.

■ Swaps - Le Fonds est autorisé à contracter des swaps de variance, des credit default swaps, des swaps sur rendement total, d'inflation, d'actif, de taux d'intérêt ou de devises. Ces swaps sont comptabilisés à la valeur de marché d'après l'évaluation des éléments définis dans les contrats. Le bénéfice net non réalisé est inclus à la rubrique « Plus-value nette non réalisée sur swaps et CFD » de l'État des actifs nets, et la perte nette non réalisée est incluse à la rubrique « Moins-value nette non réalisée sur swaps et CFD » de l'État de l'actif net. Les bénéfices/(pertes) nets réalisés et la variation nette des bénéfices/(pertes) non réalisés sur swaps sont comptabilisés dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net.

■ Instruments du marché monétaire - Le marché monétaire couvre des instruments financiers qui présentent une grande liquidité et des échéances très courtes. Il est utilisé par les opérateurs comme moyen pour emprunter et prêter à court terme, avec des échéances généralement comprises entre 24 heures et un peu moins d'un an. Pour les instruments monétaires, l'accroissement (différence entre le coût et la valeur amortie) est comptabilisé à la rubrique « Variation nette de la plus ou moins-value non réalisée sur les placements et sur les dettes dérivés de contrats de prise en pension » dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net pour les titres détenus en fin d'exercice. Si les instruments ont été vendus ou remboursés, ce résultat est comptabilisé en « Bénéfice/(perte) net(te) réalisé(e) sur vente de titres » dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net.

■ Titres TBA (To Be Announced) - Les positions TBA font référence à la pratique de négociation courante sur le marché des titres adossés à des créances hypothécaires selon laquelle un titre est acheté à partir d'un groupe de crédits hypothécaires (par ex. Ginnie Mae, Fannie Mae ou Freddie Mac) pour un prix fixe à une date future. Au moment de l'achat, le titre en question n'est pas précisément connu, seules ses principales caractéristiques sont spécifiées. Bien que le prix ait été déterminé au moment de l'achat, la valeur principale n'a pas encore été fixée. Les positions TBA sont indiquées dans le portefeuille de titres. L'achat de ce type de titres n'a pas été réglé et, par conséquent, le montant correspondant à la dette due au moment du règlement de la transaction figure à la rubrique « Dettes à payer aux courtiers » dans l'État de l'actif net. Les bénéfices/(pertes) réalisés sur les titres TBA et les variations de la plus- ou moins-value non réalisée sont comptabilisés dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net, respectivement aux rubriques « Bénéfice/(perte) net(te) réalisé(e) sur vente de titres » et « Variation nette de la plus- ou moins-value non réalisée sur les placements et sur les dettes dérivés de contrats de prise en pension ». Risque lié aux MBS / ABS Les titres adossés à des créances hypothécaires et les titres adossés à des actifs (MBS et ABS) comportent en général un risque de remboursement anticipé et de prolongement et peuvent aussi comporter des risques de liquidité, de crédit et de taux d'intérêt supérieurs à la moyenne.

- Bénéfice/(perte) net(te) réalisé(e) sur vente de titres - Le montant de la rubrique « Bénéfice/(perte) net(te) réalisé(e) sur vente de titres » de l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net reflète la différence entre le coût et le produit des titres vendus, en tenant compte des impacts liés au marché et à la devise.
- Coûts d'opération - Les coûts d'opération comprennent les frais de courtage et les frais facturés par le dépositaire relativement aux opérations sur titres et aux opérations sur produits dérivés. Les coûts d'opération sont exclus des coûts d'achat et de vente relatifs aux titres et aux produits dérivés. Tous ces frais sont comptabilisés à la rubrique « Frais de courtage et de transaction » dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net. Voir note 23 qui décrit les frais de réception et transmission d'ordres.
- Contrats sur différence (CFD) - À chaque date d'évaluation, la différence de cours entre le cours d'ouverture et le prix courant du marché du titre ou de l'indice sous-jacent vis-à-vis du contrat sur différence (CFD, de l'anglais Contract for difference) est enregistrée à la valeur de marché (gain ou perte non réalisé) du contrat ; lorsque le compartiment réalise une transaction de clôture, la différence entre le montant notionnel d'ouverture et le montant notionnel de clôture du titre sous-jacent est comptabilisée comme gain ou perte réalisé aux rubriques Bénéfice/(perte) net(te) réalisé(e) sur swaps et sur CFD dans l'État des opérations et des variations de l'actif net. Les dépôts de sécurité peuvent être effectués en espèces à la passation du contrat sur différence. Les paiements ultérieurs, appelés marges de variation, sont périodiquement versés ou reçus par le compartiment et dépendent des changements de la valeur de marché des contrats sur différence en cours.
- Prêt de titres - Dans les transactions de prêt et d'emprunt de titres, un prêteur transfère des titres ou instruments financiers à un emprunteur, sous réserve que l'emprunteur s'engage à restituer des titres ou instruments financiers équivalents à une date future ou au moment demandé par le prêteur. L'emprunteur doit fournir une garantie, qui se prolonge tout au long de la période de prêt et qui est au minimum équivalente à l'évaluation globale des titres prêtés, majorée de toute marge de sécurité jugée appropriée en fonction de la qualité de la garantie.

5 COMMISSIONS DE PERFORMANCE

Les frais de performance sont calculés séparément pour chaque classe d'actions. Ils sont cumulés chaque jour, déduits et payés annuellement pour chaque classe d'actions. Les frais de performance de chaque Compartiment sont calculés en comparant la VNI de la classe d'actions correspondante avec l'indicateur de référence.

Le mécanisme appliqué est détaillé sur le site Internet www.amundi.lu/Amundi-Funds

Les Compartiments et les Classes d'actions faisant l'objet d'une commission de performance sont répertoriés sur le site Internet www.amundi.lu/Amundi-Funds.

Pour toutes les classes autorisées à Hong Kong, veuillez noter qu'aucune commission de performance n'est appliquée.

6 FISCALITÉ DU FONDS - TAXE D'ABONNEMENT

Par ailleurs, le Fonds est redevable au Luxembourg d'un impôt de 0.05% par an relativement aux Compartiments en actions, aux Compartiments obligataires, aux Compartiments multi-actifs, aux Compartiments protégés et aux Compartiments à rendement absolu, à l'exception des investissements réalisés par lesdits Compartiments dans d'autres organismes de placement collectif établis au Luxembourg et déjà assujettis à la taxe d'abonnement, (pour lesquels aucun impôt n'est appliqué), et de 0.01% par an relativement aux Compartiments monétaires et aux classes d'actions H, I, J, M, O, OR, SE, X et Z de tous les Compartiments (la « taxe d'abonnement »), ledit impôt étant dû trimestriellement sur la base de la VNI du Fonds à la fin du trimestre calendaire correspondant.

Le bénéfice de la taxe d'abonnement de 0.01% par an est accessible aux actionnaires admis aux classes d'actions H, I, J, M, O, OR, SE, X ou Z au titre des dispositions légales, réglementaires et fiscales du Luxembourg dont le Fonds a connaissance au moment de l'admission d'un investisseur auxdites classes d'actions.

Il ne peut cependant être donné aucune garantie pour le passé ni pour le futur, et l'éligibilité des investisseurs est sujette à l'interprétation, de temps à autre, de toute autorité compétente au sujet du statut d'un investisseur éligible aux classes H, I, J, M, O, OR, SE, X ou Z. Ladite reclassification effectuée par une autorité compétente en ce qui concerne le statut d'un investisseur pourrait exposer l'intégralité de la classe d'actions à un taux de taxe d'abonnement de 0.05% par an.
